KEY RISKS

What are the key risks associated with this product?

Market risk	Market risk refers to the possibility that an investment will lose value because of a general decline in financial markets, due to economic, political and/or other factors, which will result in a decline in the fund's NAV.
Specific security risk	Prices of a particular security may fluctuate in response to the circumstances affecting individual companies. As such, adverse price movements of a particular security invested by the fund may adversely affect the fund's NAV and unit price.
Liquidity risk	Liquidity risk refers to the ease of liquidating an asset depending on the asset's volume traded in the market. If the fund holds assets that are illiquid, or are difficult to dispose of, the value of the fund will be negatively affected when it has to sell such assets at unfavourable prices.
Interest rate risk	Interest rate risk refers to the impact of interest rate changes on the valuation of bonds or other forms of securitised debt, money market instruments and deposits. When interest rates rise, prices of bonds or other forms of securitised debt generally decline and this may lower the market value of the fund's investment in bonds or other forms of securitised debt. The reverse applies when interest rates fall. The returns of the fund's investments in money market instruments and deposits move in tandem with interest rates. A decline in interest rates will lower the returns of the fund's investments in money market instruments and deposits. For example, when interest rates fall, deposit placements would be reinvested at lower interest rates and subsequently yield lower returns to the fund.
Credit risk	Credit risk relates to the creditworthiness of the issuer of the securities or money market instruments and deposits which is dependent on the issuer's ability to make timely payments of interest or principal. In the event that the issuer of a security or money market instruments and deposits defaults in the payment of interest and/or principal, the value of the fund may be adversely affected.
Currency risk	If the fund invests in assets denominated in foreign currency, the fund may be exposed to currency fluctuation risks. If the currencies in which the investments are denominated depreciate against the local currency, the fund's NAV may be adversely affected and vice versa. To mitigate such risk, the fund may undertake hedging strategies. However, the fund would not benefit from any potential upside if currencies move in the opposite direction of the hedging strategy.

PNVGF

What are the key risks associated with this product? (cont'd)

Country risk	Investments of the fund in any country may be affected by changes in the economic and political climate, restriction on currency repatriation or other developments in the law or regulations of the country in which the fund invests in. For example, the deteriorating economic condition of such countries may adversely affect the value of the investments undertaken by the fund in those affected countries. This in turn may cause the NAV of the fund or prices of units to fall.

You are advised to read the fund's prospectus and understand the risks involved and, if necessary, consult your professional adviser(s) before investing.
